

Feed My Twitter Manual

Feed My Twitter is a free windows program that allows you to post updates to your Twitter account without having to log in to your Twitter account. Feed my Twitter will also shorten your URLs for you with Bit.ly to allow you more writing room. You can minimize/hide Feed My Twitter to your tray bar and pop it back up when you want write another update to your Twitter account. It makes Twitter Life simple!

Using Feed My Twitter

1 - Twitter Username - In this section you will input your Twitter username.

2 - Twitter Password - In this section you will input your Twitter password.

3 - Save Twitter Information - When you have finished typing in your Twitter username and password press this button to save your information so next time you open Feed My Twitter your user & password info will automatically be loaded.

4 - Go To Twitter Page - Once you have saved your information you can press this buttons to view your Twitter page.

5 - Char - This are shows how many characters you have typed in your Twitter Message area. Twitter only allows 140 characters per post at this time. If you type more than 140 characters the program will notify you to shorten your message.

6 - Twitter Message - In this section you can type your message to post to Twitter. No HTML code is allowed in this section. If you want to leave a link simply type copy and paste a link to the message or type " http://".

Shorten URL PopUp

When you copy and paste a link (link must always start with http://) or type "http" Feed My Twitter will automatically recognize it as a link and will pop up a Shorten URL box. Simply type your link in the box and press the OK button. Feed My Twitter will automatically shorten your link with Bit.ly and add it in your Twitter message. Because most links are very long and Twitter only allows 140 characters in your message. The Shorten URL function allows you have more writing room in your message.

7 – Post Message To Twitter – Once you have finished typing your message press this button to post your update/message to your Twitter account.

Hiding & Un-Hiding Feed My Twitter for Easy Use.

Feed My Twitter can also be hidden in your tray icon so that it is not in your way while you do other things on your computer. Once you are ready to twitt again, simply open up again from the tray icon for fast and easy posting to your Twitter account.

To hide Feed My Twitter in the background simply double click the Feed My Twitter icon in your tray bar, near your clock on the computer.

To unhide Feed My Twitter simply double click the tray icon again.

Example where your Feed My Twitter icon may be on your computer, simply double click it to hide the program in the background. Double click it again when you want to unhide the program.

Register @ SEOMunchies.com for more free software, online marketing tips, and program updates.